SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 27, 1859.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention will be held at the City of Madison, in the Assembly Hall of the Capitol on Wednesday, the 21st day of August next, at 12 o'clock M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for State and County offices, and for the purpose of taking the annual report of the State Auditor at the annual general election, and to transact any other business that may properly come before it.

As the subject of selecting delegates to the next National Convention may be anticipated and acted on by the Convention, it is suggested that the people in their primary associations, and the district conventions make such arrangements as will intimate to their delegates that they are to be appointed by the Convention.

Captain McBride is as follows:

J. A. TENNEY,
W.M.C. ROGERS,
GEORGE MEEZELL,
W.H. SMITH,
W.P. LYON,
L.D. GARD,
GEORGE L. GRAVES.

An Interesting Conversation.

The conversation between HORACE GREENLEY and BRIGHAM YOUNG, which we publish to-day from the editorial correspondence of the N.Y. Tribune, will be read with a great deal of interest. GREENLEY confronted the Mormon prophet with his usual blandness, and the answer to his interrogatories will give one a very impartial idea of Mormon philosophy.

Shall we have Horse Rail Roads?

As the project of constructing a Horse Rail Road in our city, has met with some considerable opposition in the Common Council, which, if persisted in, may prove fatal to the enterprise, we propose to consider briefly the ground upon which the ordinance authorizing the laying of a track through the 1st, 7th, and 3rd Wards, was opposed. It is acknowledged, we believe, on all hands that the introduction of Horse Rail Roads would largely benefit our city, and that the time has arrived when we should have them. Indeed, Street Railways are now looked upon by the majority of people, as compared with omnibuses, in very much the same light that Steam Rail Roads are looked upon as compared with stage coaches, and the city that is without its street Rail Roads, now-days is regarded as being as decidedly behind the age. The advantages of these new modes of city conveyance are so obvious that it is quite unnecessary to dwell on this part of the subject.

The general features of this ordinance which has already met with the approval of the majority of the Common Council, though not yet passed, appear to be just and equitable, and the only ground of opposition, that we have heard mentioned, is that the Ordinance does not require the Company to pay the city a license fee for the privilege of running their cars throughout the streets. This we regard as an unreasonable demand, and inexpedient at the present time. Instead of requiring the Company to pay a license for running a Horse Railroad on the proposed route, we should consider it far better policy for the City Government to offer every encouragement for the speedy construction of the road, and ensure the Company the right of way free on the conditions set forth in the ordinance for any reasonable period, that they might demand.

It is a fact that nods no elaboration to prove its truth, that Horse Rail Roads can not be advantageously used as inter-city vehicles, and in evidence of this it is sufficient to know that while they have been for several years in operation in New York, Philadelphia, and other large cities of the East, their introduction in the Western country is comparatively recent date.

Let us look then for a moment at the conditions upon which these Horse Rail Roads have been constructed, in much larger cities than our own. In Cincinnati, a city containing some 225,000 inhabitants, the conditions upon which the various routes were let are these: the companies are required to keep the entire streets through which their tracks pass in repair, and make such improvements or alterations in the same as the Common Council may demand; they pay the city an annual license of thirty ($30) dollars for each car they run, and a fee of one cent for every passenger carried. There are four routes now in operation there, and two more in contemplation which will probably be let at an early day, on the same terms. In Chicago, a much smaller city than Cincinnati, but still a much larger one than our own, the Horse Rail Road Companies only improve and keep in repair one-third of the streets through which their tracks pass, and pay nothing for the right of way, or for the nature of a license. The rates have been in a predictable order, though expected, and the subject of fixing a moderate license fee for each car is now under consideration, though it has not yet been formally voted upon by the Common Council.

Now, it is quite evident, that a horse railroad would not be as profitable here as present as at Chicago, and it is equally apparent that when Companies are permitted to construct their roads there without any tax or license, it would be unreasonable to demand a license or tax for the privilege of a route. The Company here is composed of our own citizens and is prepared to commence laying the tracks as soon as the Common Council gives them permission. We trust those members of the Board of Aldermen who opposed the ordinance in the character in which it was introduced, will consider the injury that will inflict upon the city should the continuance of their opposition defeat this important enterprise.

TERITORIAL BANKS—A JUDICIAL DECISION.—Judge SEARS, of the Third Judicial District of Iowa, has decided in a suit instituted on a promissory note endorsed to the Bank of Tekamah, Nebraska Territory, that all incorporated Banks in that Territory are illegal, and all business transacted by them as corporations is a violation of the law.—The decision is given without the act of Congress of 1856, which reads, "That no act of the Territorial Legislature of any of the Territories of the United States, incorporating any Bank, or any institution with Banking powers or privileges, heretofore to be passed, shall have any force or effect whatever until approved and confirmed by Congress." The Judge holds that an innocent holder of a promissory note before maturity, even if given for the issue of these institutions, would be protected, and could enforce the contract as against a wrong doer—but the law would not lend its power to assist a party in enforcing a contract, as between parties to the same fraudulent and illegal transaction.

PROMISING YOUTHS.—The Davenport (Iowa) Democrit exposes the existence of a society of youths in Port Byron, of that State, which has for its object, robbery, arson, and murder. The paper says, "The Davenport Democrit is bold led to the detection of one of their number, who turned traitor and disclosed the whole scheme. Active measures were immediately taken to arrest the members of the society, and some arrests were eventually successful. Three or four were taken and confined in jail, but the larger portion of them escaped to the woods, where they are still running at large."

THE DAY.—This morning, before the calling of the Convention, the streets were blockaded by collections of candidates and delegations from every corner, but after nine o'clock they were all gone, and the appearance of a Sunday. Notwithstanding the large crowd now in town, business is no more brisk than usual. Politics are all the go.—Mad. Journal, Aug. 25.

The Detroit and Milwaukee Steamers—Presentation of Colors to the "Detroit."

In our editorial correspondence, yesterday, the reception of the new steamers Alma and Milwaukee, at Detroit, was briefly noticed. The following report of the ceremonies on board the Detroit, from the Free Press, will be read with interest:

The suit of colors designed for the Detroit was presented to the officers of that vessel by the Mayor and the committee of the Common Council of that city who had the master in charge. This committee consisted of Alderman Craig, President of the Bar, and Aldermen Clegg and Johnson. The colors were manufactured to their order by Win. Cole, sail-maker of this city, and consist of eight pieces, Union Jack, burgees, large enough for people to see, and a small flag of hunting, and cost $350. The presentation took place on the upper deck of the steamer upon which they were designed. Mayor Craig made a speech of welcome, and speech, and Captain McBride as follows:

I had the honor, in behalf of the Common Council of the city of Detroit, of presenting (the Captain) this suit of colors.

He said, "I thank you."

TESTIMONIAL.

Burnett's Cocaine, July 19, 1857.
MESSRS. J. BURNETT & CO.—I cannot refuse to mention here that I have been failing off, until it was hopeless of finding remedy. The first application of your product has removed all my affliction,
and now I am looking forward with hope to a restored condition I attributed to the use of various advised nostrums, which I have since been told
cannot be relied upon.

I consulted a physician, to whom you had shown your process of purifying the Oil, I communicated it to him the last week. The first application
of your product has removed all my affliction,
and now I am looking forward with hope to a
restored condition I attributed to the use of various advised nostrums, which I have since been told
cannot be relied upon.

Yours truly,

SUSAN R. FOLKE.

THE SENTINEL. COMMERCIAL.

Estimate, August 25, 1859.

Breakfast, 5¢.

The following table shows the movements of bread at this point for the past 24 hours:

Floor, Wheat, Corn, Barley, Rye,	Flour, 5 cts.
By M. M. & R. 144 5,105	... 374 ...
By M. M. & R. 153 8,370	... 386 1,681
By M. M. & R. 153 8,370	... 386 1,681
By M. M. & R. 38 58 649	... 58 649
Total ... 450 15,038	450 2,064
To Buffalo ... 12,373

In regard to the receipts it is proper to state that those from the Northwest and Saratoga Valley, include four days, and the Milwaukee and Fond du Lac, two days. The receipts of wheat to day were about 12,000 bushels to all points.

The wheat crop has just commenced moving, and if even present prices had remained, we would have had a large surplus to meet the demand. To-day, with the increased receipts, the market assumed a comparatively lively tone, and the offerings of sellers were quickly taken up at yesterday's prices. In some instances an advance was made, and the market was again in a position to meet the high notions of buyers. Dearer, knowing the high nature of the New York market, does not much concern us in the stability of the present advance there. Sales comprise about 7,000 bus. to 720 for Five (multi-spirited); 15 to 20 for No. 1, according to the new inspection, and 15 to 50 for extra club. The quality of wheat to day was about 50 bus. to 500 bus. All received on the Milwaukee and Minneapolis markets to day, (14 car loads), averaged 50% bus to the bushel, and was all graded as No. 1. Much of it weighed upwards of 50 bus., and would readily have passed for extra club. Had it been properly cleaned.

There was a fair share of spring extra flour, sold at 50% bus. to 500 bus. which brings the average figure being a very superior brand. Quite quiet; corn flour, Rye steady.

Chicago, August 25.—Receipts, 4,340 bushels flour, 56,572 bus. wheat, 5,640 bus. oats, 752 bus. barley.

There was a good attendance on Change day, but a small amount of business was done. Wheat opened quiet, but after the receipts were posted, the market declined to Spring grades and 20 bus. per bushel.

About 27,000 bus. changed hands, at $1.00 per bushel, and the market closed at 20 bus. per bushel.

The result at this date of the principal articles of produce, from the opening of the fall market, and including the first load, was as follows:
